

Can't find what you're looking for?

Alpha Omicron Pi's new website looks significantly different with the launch of our new brand! We hope the site is easy to navigate, however, we are aware that some content is no longer provided on AOII's homepage. Please reference the list of items below that were once housed on AOII's website to find their new location within AOII's resources.

If you are still in search of something on AOII's brand new website, please email aoiionline@alphaomicronpi.org for assistance.

Founders’ Day Information

- On January 2, 1897, Alpha Omicron Pi was formally organized at the home of Helen St. Clair (Mullan). That date was recognized as AOII Founders’ Day until it became increasingly inconvenient to hold festivities during the busy holidays and school breaks. For convenience, AOII officially celebrates Founders’ Day on Founder Stella George Stern Perry’s birthday, December 8th. Each year, information will be posted on the Fraternity News section of AOII’s website in anticipation of celebrating another year of sisterhood.

Webinars

- AOII’s webinars are aimed to provide consistent education and training to specific officers and/or advisers. The officer or adviser chosen varies based on the training topic. Prior to each webinar, communication about the training topic and call information is sent directly to the specialized audience. The selected officers and/or advisers for a particular training are sent a link which they will use to access the training. There is also always time allotted for a question and answer period at the end of the training. All trainings are recorded and uploaded to the Officer Resource Library following the live training event. These are available for review at your convenience and for officer transition purposes.
